

Foreign Military Sales (FMS)

Tobyhanna Army Depot (TYAD) is the U.S. Army Center of Industrial and Technical Excellence (CITE) for Command, Control, Communications, Computers, Intelligence, Surveillance and Reconnaissance (C4ISR), Electronics, Avionics and Missile Guidance and Control. TYAD is the U.S. Air Force Technology Repair Center for Command, Control, Communications, Computers and Intelligence and Tactical Missiles.

CAPABILITIES

TYAD supports the process of selling U.S. defense equipment, services and training to foreign militaries. TYAD has participated in Foreign Military Sales (FMS) since 1984 and has visited over 70 countries.

One of the major FMS programs that TYAD supports is Language Labs. TYAD personnel fabricate labs by assembling computers with commercial off-the-shelf hardware, installing software, providing final testing and shipping to foreign destinations. If requested, TYAD employees travel to the country to complete the installation and provide training instruction. Since program inception, TYAD has delivered approximately 300 systems and completed over 170 installations in countries such as Iraq, Libya, Vietnam, Morocco, Jordan, Mexico, Madagascar, Pakistan, Panama, Kyrgyzstan, Portugal, Chile, Sudan, and Comoros.

Additional FMS programs include the Sidewinder Missile; Maverick Missile; Generators; Contractor Repair, which includes Flight Direction Computers, Displacement Gyros, and Image Intensifiers; Tube-launched Optically Tracked Wire (TOW)/Infantry Fighting Vehicles, which consists of M2A1 Basic TOW, M2A2 Improved TOW, M2A2 Operation Desert Storm Bradley Eye Safe Laser Range Finder, M2A3 Improved Bradley Acquisition System, and the AN/UAS-12; and Avionics, including Transmitter Subassemblies, Horizontal Indicators, Receiver Transmitters, and the AN/ALQ-144, Countermeasure Set.

TYAD also actively pursues Public Private Partnerships for FMS workload.
